Comments on Names of the Characters in Five Tales from Ancient Egypt

Hesham Ezz Eldin Zaki

Faculty of Tourism and Hotels – University of Sadat City

Abstract

This paper focuses on names of the characters in five tales represented in the Eloquent Peasant, the Shipwrecked Sailor, Sinuhe, Capturing Joppa and Two Brothers. This intends to present what significances the name represented through their relation with behaviors and roles of the characters in the tales.

Keywords: names – characters – tales- significances - behaviors – roles.

Introduction

In literature, choosing names for the characters is an essential element in the writing tales. This is because the names are supposed to express nature and role of the characters in different situations and events. In the ancient Egyptian tale of Blinding Truth by Falsehood, its two main rivals are given epithetical names Maat “Truth” and Igr “Falsehood” which expressed their good and bad natures respectively. Khonsu in tale of “Princess of Bekhten” was described as the great god who exorcizes the demon that causes illness because of his role in curing the prince after subduing the spirit which possessed her body.

The purpose of this paper is to show the significance of characters names in some remarkable ancient Egyptian tales, such as “the Eloquent Peasant”, “Sinuhe”, “the Shipwrecked Sailor”, “Capturing of Joppa’ and “the Two Brothers” in order to show the relevance between the names of the characters and their nature and roles in the tale’s events and situations. In addition, the paper will present suggestive interpretations about the reason of not giving names to characters.

I. Tale of the Eloquent Peasant

The tale’s main character is the peasant Khueninpu who left his wife Meret in “Valley of the Salts” for a trading travel with his donkeys which were loaded with precious products. Unfortunately, he encountered a greedy employer who set a trap for him in order to seize the donkeys and this was followed by act of the peasant who fluently made nine complains in voluble method to Rensi son of Meru to whom the bad employer worked in his estate.

The coming part presents names significances for the bad employer, the peasant and his wife as well as Rensi son of Meru.

I.a. Name of the Bad Employer:

There are two images for name of the bad employer represented in: -

(a) Gḥwy-Nḥt with sign of ibis bird standing above standard in its first part and it is read as Gḥwy-Nḥt that means “Thoth is Strong” in ancient Egypt.

(b) Nmt-y-Nḥt “Nemty is Strong”.

The coming part shall present suggested opinions about the significances of the two readings Gḥwy-Nḥt and Nmt-y-Nḥt with the aim of indicating to what extant they suited nature and behavior of the wicked employer in the tale according to the author’s concept.

6 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 230, R. 1.1.
12 Lichtheim, Egyptian Literature 1, p. 170 and 183 note 4, Simpson, Literature of Ancient Egypt, p. 27; Canhão, Literatura Egipcia Do Império Médio, p. 466 note 25; Parkenson, Tale of Sinuhe, p. 58 and Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 236, Bt. 19-20.

157
Starting with first reading for the name Thoth-Nakhet, it might suit nature of the bad employer and his wicked behaviors against the peasant according to the following aspects:

(1) The ibis bird of god Thoth had been used in the verbs $\text{gmH}$ “to catch sight of” and $\text{gmi}$ “to find” referring to its natural ability in spotting and picking up worms from the mud lands. Likewise, the employer set eyes on the peasant’s arrival with his donkeys and desired to possess them.

(2) The employer possessed cleverness of god Thoth to immediately set the plan of taking hold of the donkeys through ordering his servant to put clothes on the narrow path to obligate the peasant pass through the wheat field with donkeys. He was completely aware that one of the donkeys would eat from the wheat. He warned the peasant not to trend over the clothes and the later said that his way was good. As Thoth-Nakhet expected one of the donkeys ate small portion from the wheat.

(3) God Thoth had been described as judge in utterance 210 from Old Kingdom Pyramid Text. In the tale the employer considered himself as judge who issues verdicts and rulings, so he exploited the little incident when the donkey ate small portion of wheat as pretext to seize the donkeys.

From the previous appears concept of the author in using god Thoth in name to indicate that the awful nature of employer who enjoyed cleverness but he used it in cunning way because of his greediness.

For second part of the name Nht “strong” with sign of standing man while holding stick in position of ready to strike refers to act of using violence by the employer when he severely hit the peasant by using $\text{isr wfd}$ “green tamarisk” which was used by the employer to smite the peasant. From the mythical view the tamarisk might be reflection to the acts of deception and dishonesty which had been committed by the employer against the peasant because this kind of tree was believed to had been used by Seth to entrap his brother Osiris before killing him.

---

13 Wb 5, 170.8 and 171.11 and FCD, p. 289.
14 Wb 5, 166.6 and 169.8.
17 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 238-239, Bt. 31-36.
In addition, name of the employer’s father is \[\text{Isry} \]25 which was derived from \[\text{Tamarisk} \]26 and the employer as previously mentioned used \[\text{Isr w/d “green tamarisk”} \] to smite the peasant 27. This might lead to idea of the wicked employer who inherited cruelty and acts of committing aggression from his father and in another word both the father and the son are from two different generations but they embodied the same line of brutal part in the society.

For the second reading of the name \[\text{Nmty-Nht} \]28 “Nmty is strong” 29, Nemty was the celestial ferryman of the sun god Re 30 and he was respected in the Middle Kingdom 31. It is ridiculously noticed that although god Nemty was associated with transportation but he annoyed the peasant in the road 32 as shown when he obligated the peasant to change his path in order to seize the donkeys 33.

As a result the name of the villain character in the tale represented the malignant and malicious kind of people in society who used their intelligence and exploited their power in evil way to set their own order and justice against simple kind people. As a result, he did not deserve carrying the name of such useful god either Thoth or Nemty because of his bad behaviors.

I.b. Name of the Peasant

Name of the peasant \[\text{Khueninpu} \]34 means “Protection of Anubis” 35. According to an opinion this name has sardonic connection with appeal of the peasant to the netherworld god Anubis 36 in the ninth petition because he desired to leave the world of livings after losing hope from obtaining justice 37. In another word since god Anubis had been connected with judgment of the dead ones 38, therefore the peasant would only find impartiality in the afterlife against the wicked ones through god Anubis.

From another view probably Anubis was included in name of the peasant whose hometown was \[\text{Sht-hmrt “Valley of the Salt”} \]39 which is Wadi Natron nowadays 40. For this town was source for salt used for embalming and god Anubis was 25 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 235 Bt.21.

26 FCD 31 and Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 236 Bt.20-21.
27 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 243-244 B1.53-55.
28 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 235, Bt. 20.
29 Parkenson, Tale of Sinuhe, p. 76 note 4 and Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 236, Bt. 19-20.
30 Wilkinson, Complete Gods and Goddesses, p. 204 and Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 236, Bt. 19-20.
31 LÄ I, 453; Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 236, Bt. 19-20 and LGG IV, 242f.
32 Parkenson, Tale of Sinuhe, p. 76 note 4.
33 Parkenson, Tale of Sinuhe, p. 59.
34 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 230, R. 1.1.
35 Canhão, Textos Da Literatura Egípcia Do Império Médio, p. 458 note 1 and Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 231 note R 1,1.
39 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 230, R. 1.1.
40 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 231, Note. R.1.1.
god of mummification\textsuperscript{41}. So, salt might have represented an important economical sources for the inhabitants who used \textit{Anubis} in names of their children as sort of showing gratitude to the god and to obtain his blessings.

In addition \textit{Hw.n Inpw} was described as \textit{šḥ tj} “peasant” in the tale\textsuperscript{42}. This might have intended to express that he belonged to the rank of the simple kind people of Egypt whose primitiveness depended on kindness and simplicity hoping to obtain peaceful life which is fortified with justice and tolerance.

It might be notable to show sarcasm of the author in choosing names of the bad employer and the peasant. The bad employer who carried names for benevolent god represented in \textit{Thoth} or \textit{Nemyt} threatened to end life of the peasant whose name signifies his protection by god \textit{Anubis} who was the guardian of the dead and the necropolis.

\textbf{Ic. Name of the Peasant’s Wife}

For the peasant’s wife who only appeared in beginning of the tale, her name is \textit{Mrt} (or \textit{Meret})\textsuperscript{43} that refers to the meaning “The Beloved One” for it resembles words \textit{mry “beloved”}\textsuperscript{44} and \textit{mryt “the beloved of”}\textsuperscript{45}. Indeed, her name might express her idle role as the beloved obedient wife who devoted her life to support her husband and organized his house.

\textbf{IId. Name of the Renzi son of Merw}

In addition, name of the great man who heard the peasant’s complaints is \textit{mrw s\textsuperscript{3} rnsy “Renzi son of Merw”}\textsuperscript{46}. The father’s name \textit{Mrw} was derived from verb \textit{mrl “to love”}\textsuperscript{47} and word \textit{mry “beloved”}\textsuperscript{48}. This suits the positive role of \textit{Renzi} who showed mercy towards the peasant as shown in the tale. On the contrary of \textit{Thoth} or \textit{Nemyt – Nakhet} who got brutality from his father, \textit{Renzi} got the virtue of loving people and providing tender to them from his father. In this act \textit{Renzi son of Merw} represented the perfect idle of the high-level people in the society who possessed kindness and sympathy towards the other various simple people from lower ranks.

\textbf{II. Tale of Sinuhe}

The hero of the tale is \textit{Sinuhe} who stated his marvelous epic life in Upper \textit{Retjnu} after his flee from Egypt because of the fear from the inner trouble he expected to happen after death of king \textit{Amenemhat} I against the ascension of his heir \textit{Snusert} I upon the throne\textsuperscript{49}.

\begin{itemize}
  \item \textsuperscript{41} Wilkinson, \textit{Complete Gods and Goddesses}, p. 187.
  \item \textsuperscript{42} Allen, \textit{Middle Egyptian Literature}, 2015, p. 232.
  \item \textsuperscript{43} Gardiner, “The Eloquent Peasant”, p. 7 and Allen, \textit{Middle Egyptian Literature}, p. 230, R. 1,2.
  \item \textsuperscript{44} \textit{Wb} 2, 100.12 and 101.4.
  \item \textsuperscript{45} \textit{Wb} 2, 100.14.
  \item \textsuperscript{46} Allen, \textit{Middle Egyptian Literature}, p. 258-259, B1 117.
  \item \textsuperscript{47} \textit{Wb} 2, 98.12 and100.11.
  \item \textsuperscript{48} \textit{Wb} 2, 100.12 and 101.4.
  \item \textsuperscript{49} For the tale of Sinuhe see Parkenson, \textit{Tale of Sinuhe}, p. 27-43 ; Canhão, \textit{Literatura Egípcia Do Império Médio}, p. 181- 257 and Allen, \textit{Middle Egyptian Literature}, p. 57-153.
\end{itemize}
This part displays significances of the name of Sinuhe and presents hypotheses about names of other characters represented in the pathfinder who saved Sinuhe from death, Ammunanši the chief of Upper Retjnu and the Asiatic warrior who challenged Sinuhe as well as king Snusert I.

II.a. Name of Sinuhe

The name 50 S3-nht (Sinuhe) means “Son of the Sycamore Tree” 51 which was regarded another variant for the name S3-Ḥwt-Ḥr “Son of Hathor” 52. This is because the sycamore tree had been associated with Hathor the goddess of love, rebirth and maternity 53. Obviously, the name “Sinuhe” expresses gift of enjoying protection of goddess Hathor and it points to believe that probably Sinuhe had been born in a place near a sycamore tree as a wish to gain blessing of goddess Hathor at moment of his birth.

There are useful opinions that associated word nht “sycamore” in second half of Sinuhe’s name with the events which happened to him in the tale 54 such as for example:- (a) the word nh means “escape” 55 and Sinuhe fled from Egypt because of his fear from the internal struggle inside the royal palace 56 and got away from death because of thirst when he was saved by the pathfinder 57 and (b) The word nht signifies “refuge” 58 which suits stable life Sinuhe had found under the chief of Retjenu Ammunanši 59. In addition, goddess Hathor was regarded as the godmother who rejuvenated the power of Sinuhe because of her religious role represented in receiving souls of the dead to provide them with nourishment 60.

In addition to the previous, the name Sinuhe might carry other significances represented in the following hypothesis: -

1- The word  fav nh “refuge” 61 and the verb fav nh “to protect” 62 suit the positive works which were executed by Sinuhe during his long stay in Asia represented in:- (a) sheltering the messengers who passed by him during their missions; (b) giving water to the thirsty one and (c) acting as shield to the passengers and travelers through protecting them from being plundered or robbed in the roads.

50 Canhão, Literatura Egípcia Do Império Médio, p. 181 and Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 57 R2
51 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 57 R2.
52 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 58 R2.
55 FCD 135.
56 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 65, B6-7.
57 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 74, B25-26.
58 Wb 2, 281.10-11 and FCD 135.
59 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 91, B78-79
60 Canhão, Textos Da Literatura Egípcia Do Império Médio, p. 259 note 6.
61 Wb 2, 281.10-11 and FCD 135.
62 Wb 2, 281.7-9.
2- The word nḥt ends with tree determinative 𓇃 that had been used in word 𓇃𓇃𓇃 that gives meanings of “fortunate” and “successful”. It seems interesting to realize that the previous words suit the various incidents which happened to Sinuhe after deserting Egypt. Firstly, Sinuhe was lucky because (a) an Asiatic pathfinder miraculously appeared in the last moment to rescue Senuhi from destiny of death because of thirsty; (b) there were the Egyptians who were in Upper Retjenu and they gave to its chief Ammunanši good report and justification about Sinuhe. No doubt this was having great influence upon Ammunanši to trust Sinuhe through marrying him to his eldest daughter and appointing him as the head of his sons. (c) As being said by Ammunanši, it was good for Sinuhe to have chance of living with people from his country and speak the same Egyptian language. This might have represented some solace and comfort in the feelings of Sinuhe in a foreign land away from his country.

Secondly Sinuhe during his long stay in the Asiatic lands achieved various successes in numerous works and challenges represented in (a) subduing all the Asiatic tribes to keep order; (b) defeating the Palestinian warrior who challenged him and (c) witnessing the fruitful result of his existence in Asia when he appointed each one of his sons as chief of tribe.

3- Concerning the first half of the name of Sinuhe s3 “son”, the vocals of its two letters s + 3 also gives meaning of “protection”. In this view understandably s3-nḥt would express seeking the protection of Hathor in indirect way.

II.b. The Pathfinder

The Asiatic man who saved Sinuhe from death because of thirst was given the epithet of 𓇃𓇃𓇃 which was translated as “pathfinder”. The word 𓇃𓇃𓇃 with determinative of flying bird and seating man means “guide”. This might refer to the important role of this character in the tale because besides saving Sinuhe he escorted him to find the correct way when he reached Upper Retjnu where he found stable successful life. Here appears concept of the author who found that it would be better to give the Asiatic character a descriptive epithet to indicate its main role towards hero of the tale rather than giving him a name.

---

64 Wb 2, 48. 10 and 49. 1; FCD, 105 and Allen, Introduction to the Language, p. 436, sign M1.

65 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 73-74 B23-B27.

66 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 75-76 B32-B35.

67 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 91 B78-B79.

68 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 75-76 B29-B32.

70 Wb 3, 414.9-415.11.

73 Wb 2, p. 176.9-10 and FCD, p. 122.
II.c. Name of Ammunanši

Not like the pathfinder, name the chief of Upper Ritjnu chief was mentioned probably due to his important position. His name is \(\text{mmw-nsnš} 74\) (Ammunansši) which means according to the Amoratic interpretation “God Ammu is Glorious” 75.

The method of using hieroglyphic signs to write name of Ammunansši might carry connotations to the nature and positive decisions of this chief for the sake of Sinuhe according certain hypotheses represented in:

1. A symbolic idea can be suggested from first part of the name \(\text{mmw-nsnš}\) ‘m. These two letters with two determinatives of animal’s head and neck 76 and seating man who puts finger in mouth 77 forming ‘m \(\text{mmw-nsnš}\) means “to know” 78. This suits nature of the Upper Ritjnu chief as a wise man who possessed knowledge for he was aware with the troubles which happened in the royal palace in Egypt and he knew the powers of the Egyptian king. Most importantly he figured the good talents of Sinuhe when he heard about him from the Egyptians to the extent, he appointed him at the head of his sons and as leader of the army.

2. From the second part of the name \(\text{nsnš} \text{mmw-nsnš}\), there is sign of two arms with denial motion 79. Its phonogram is \(\text{n} \) which was used as negative particle 80. Then there are the letters \(\text{n} \) and \(\text{s} \) these two letters with determinative of two walking legs \(\text{A} \) gave meanings of “to drive away and “to expel” 81.

According to previous, \(\text{n-nš} \) might hypothetically refer to the good situation of the Asiatic chief who did not reject Sinuhe or push him out but on the contrary he allowed him to have settlement in his land under his care.

II.d. The Asiatic Warrior

Sinuhe described the Asiatic warrior who challenged him as \(\text{n twm “strongman of Ritjenu” 83 and pry pw nn snnw “he was champion without peer” 85.}\)

74 Canhão, Litetura Egípcia Do Império Médio, p. 191 and Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 75-76 B30.
75 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 76 B29-31.
76 Allen, Introduction to the Language, p. 431, sign F10.
78 Wb 1, p. 184.16-22 and FCD, p. 42.
79 Allen, Introduction to the Language, p. 429, sign D35.
80 Wb 2, 195.6-11.
81 Wb 2, p. 337.13 and p. 338.3 and FCD, p. 140.
82 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 97-98 B109.
84 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 97-98 B109.

Not giving specific name to the Asiatic warrior seems logical according to purpose of the author who wanted to make the readers focus on the powerful abilities of the Asiatic warrior and to realize the extreme danger of death that threatened life of Sinuhe. This would also lead to magnify the victory of Sinuhe over this remarkable enemy.

III. Tale of the Shipwrecked Sailor

The main character in the tale is the $smsw$ “Follower” who attempted to raise the spiritual condition of the deeply depressed $h3ty$ “High Official” because he did not achieve the targets of the naval expedition which was under his leadership.

The follower was not given a name but he was described as $iqr$ that means “excellent” and “useful” to portray his good characteristics and helpful role towards the High Official. The word $iqr$ also refers to meanings of “orderly and organized” which suits speech of the Follower who arranged the effective sentences with proper words as shown in the following order:

1. The Follower was aware with the frustration condition of the High Official. When he presented the good news of safe arrival to Egypt, he used word $ib$ “heart” in the beginning of his talk through the sentence $wdb ib.k$ “Rejoice your heart”. This is because the heart was center of senses and his main purpose was to mitigate the disheartened and dispirited feelings of the High Official. Then the Follower focused on telling the High Official that no one from the soldiers lost his life as a bright point in the expedition which did not achieve its targets.

2. After delivering the good news, the Follower requested from the High Official to listen in order to attract his attention to accept what he would say to him.

3. The Follower demanded from the High Official to wash himself and pour water over his fingers to prepare himself for meeting the king to present his report about the expedition results. This is considered normal request from the Follower because taking bathe before important official encounters was a required procedure in ancient Egypt. But it seems that the Follower was aware with morale effectiveness of the water in

---

86 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 10 column 1.
87 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 10 column 2.
89 Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 10 column 1.
91 Wb I, 137.17-19.
order to help the High Official to refresh his feelings and mental power. So he would speak without hesitation.\(^97\)

(4) After that the Follower encountered tale of meeting the giant snake in the island after wreck of the ship and death of its sailors to present advises and positive ideas in indirect way.

It seems interesting to mention that the word iqr with determinative of the ibis bird of god Thoth \(^98\) means “the excellent one” \(^99\). This might lead indirectly to consider the follower as a person who enjoy some virtues from the wisdom god Thoth.

From the previous, it is clear that the author did not give name for the Follower because of his intention to show his useful role in using the effective sentences to support the High Chief in order to make his mind think positively about the optimistic aspects in the critical situation.

In addition, it is worthy to mention two further points; firstly the word iqr is still in use through the word “Okr” to describe the clever man and secondly the effective role of the follower towards the high official might be the origin of the contemporary proverb: “choose the companion before taking the road”.

Concerning the High Official, according to an opinion tale of the Shipwrecked Sailor based on true failed expedition which had been sent to Nubia \(^100\) so the author did not want to reveal the real name of its leader. From another point of point probably the author presented an idea about the person who failed in fulfilling his mission, he loses the chance of honoring his name and perpetuating it. This idea was expressed in the tale through the snake’s speech when he requested from the sailor to mention his name in the city which was the only important thing for him.\(^101\) Also, the remarkable military leader Ahmose son of Ibana from the XVIII\(^{th}\) dynasty stated that the name of the brave man lasted forever because of his deeds and would be praised in the next generations.\(^102\)

IV. Tale of Capturing Joppa

In this tale the well-known 18\(^{th}\) dynasty military King Thothome III commissioned his army leader Ghwyi Thoth \(^103\) to invade the strong fortified city of Joppa and subdue its rebellious wrecked chief.\(^104\)

Clearly the army leader carried name of the wisdom god Thoth to indicate that he possessed the intelligence in setting war plans and tricks. This is what had already

\(^97\) Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 12-13 column 15-17.
\(^99\) Wb 1, 138.1
\(^100\) T.G.H. James, “Ancient Egyptian Writings of Imagination and Thought” in BAEDE 16, p. 73.
\(^101\) Allen, Middle Egyptian Literature, p. 43 lines 159-160.
\(^103\) A.H. Gardiner, Late Egyptian Stories, Bruxelles, 1932, p. 82 line 5.
\(^104\) For this tale see Simpson, Literature of Ancient Egypt, p. 72-74.
happened when the leader Thoth used his cleverness and to deceive the chief of Joppa through convincing him that he broke his obedience to king Hotmose III and this caused the chief of Joppa lose his cautions and he went to Thoth who exploited the chance to kill the chief of Joppa\(^{105}\). After that the leader Thoth captured Joppa after setting simple plan without entering serious battle and losing any man from his troop\(^{106}\).

V. Tale of the Two Brothers

The main two characters in the tale are \(\text{Inpw} \rightarrow \text{Anubis}\) and his younger brother \(\text{Bta} \rightarrow \text{Bata}\). Both names of the two brothers ended with determinative of falcon upon stand \(\text{G7}\) which was associated with gods\(^{107}\). This is logic because Anubis was name the mummification god and guardian of the necropolis\(^{108}\) while Bata was name of a minor god\(^{109}\) and therefore they possessed aspects of these gods as would be indicated below.

V.a. Name of Anubis

Notably name of the elder brother leads to realize equation between his roles in the tale and god Anubis in certain features. Firstly, the main role of god Anubis was to embalm the deceased’s body to preserve it and to watch over the tombs in the necropolises\(^{110}\). The elder brother Anubis possessed the same aspects of the god of mummification but in contrary way. He finished life of his bad wife and deprived her from obtaining resurrection by throwing her body to the dogs\(^{111}\). Secondly, he also performed the ritual of opening the deceased’s mouth to restore his life\(^{112}\). This might have sort of resemblance with the role of the brother Anubis when he knew about the death of his brother Bata because he searched for his heart until finding it before restoring life for him\(^{113}\).

V.b. Name of Bata

The name \(\text{Bta} \rightarrow \text{Bata}\) might carry certain significances which seems proper with the events in the tales according to the following suggestions:

(I) The name ended with three strokes of plurality\(^{114}\). It seems interesting to figure out that Bata met death three times in the tale: Firstly, when the tree which housed the Bata’s heart had been cut\(^{115}\); Secondly, Bata in form of the bull had been slaughtered\(^{116}\).

\(^{105}\) For this tale see Simpson, \textit{Literature of Ancient Egypt}, p. 73.

\(^{106}\) For this tale see Simpson, \textit{Literature of Ancient Egypt}, p. 74.

\(^{111}\) Lichtheim, \textit{Ancient Egyptian Literature II}, p. 207 and Simpson, \textit{Literature in Ancient Egypt}, p. 85.

\(^{113}\) Lichtheim, \textit{Ancient Egyptian Literature II}, p. 208-209 and Simpson, \textit{Literature in Ancient Egypt}, p. 87.

\(^{114}\) Allen, \textit{Introduction to the Language}, p. 449, sign Z2.

\(^{115}\) Lichtheim, \textit{Ancient Egyptian Literature II}, p. 208-209 and Simpson, \textit{Literature in Ancient Egypt}, p. 87.

and Thirdly, when the tree that represented the last manifestation of Bata had been cut\textsuperscript{117}. This means that Bata had reached the extreme occasions of meeting death because three was symbol of completeness\textsuperscript{118}.

(II) The second half of the name $\beta$ gives meaning of bread which was expressed through the three signs $\equiv \textsuperscript{119}$, $\bowtie \textsuperscript{120}$ and $\equiv \textsuperscript{121}$. Symbolically the bread was associated with regeneration of life, and it was also associated with resurrection of god Osiris who and the dead ones\textsuperscript{122}. As clearly shown in the tale Bata returned to life from death. The identification between Bata and Osiris can be also featured through having son after their death. Osiris after being resurrected Isis begot from him her son Horus\textsuperscript{123}. In the tale, when the tree which represented form of Bata was cut, a piece of it entered mouth of the wife who became pregnant\textsuperscript{124} with a son who became the future king.

Although the author gave names to the two brothers Anubis and Bata, but on the other hand he did not give names to their wives. Most probably, this is because the names in ancient Egypt was essential integral part for the persons\textsuperscript{125} and they used to carry useful epithets for beneficent of their carriers like Amun-hotep “God Amun is satisfied”, Mery-Re “Beloved (male) of god Re”\textsuperscript{126}, Nefer-hr-n-Ptah “The Beautiful Face of Ptah”\textsuperscript{127}, Meret-Re “Beloved (female) of Amun” and Neferu-Re “Beauties of Re”. So most probably the ancient Egyptian author thought that it was not appropriate to give the wicked character name with good description. This would cause sort of contradiction to find a lady called Mrt that means “the Beloved” who betrays her husband as happened in tale of the Two Brothers. Beside this would insult or disgrace real women in the community because the wicked character in the tale carried her name.

In addition, not giving names might resembles the hint which used to be written in the introduction of the contemporary stories that it was work of fiction and any sort of resemblance between names of the characters and real persons is matter of coincidence and unintended accident. This can be perfectly applied in tale of Blinding Truth by Falsehood because no name was given to the respected lady who made sexual affair with... the strange man Maat and got from him a son 128 who was also shown in the tale without a name.

VI. Conclusions

From the previous suggestions and hypotheses it is concluded that Names of the characters suited their natures, roles and behaviors in the tales as clearly shown in the following table:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>(1) Tale of the Eloquent peasant</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Character Name</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(1A) the Bad Employer:</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| 1st reading: Thoth-Naket (Thoth is Strong) | A- Thoth god of knowledge in first part of the name:
* The employer possessed cleverness of god Thoth to set plan for confiscating the donkeys
 The employer know that donkey would eat wheat
 The employer acted as Judge like god Thoth to take hold of the donkeys
A1- Ibis ability to spot and find
*The employer realized the donkeys with their precious products |
| 2nd reading: Nemty-Naket (Nemty is Strong) | B- Nakhet (power) in second part of the name:
* The employer used power to take the donkeys
B1- sign of Man holding stick:
* The employer violently hit the peasant |
| (1B) the Peasant: Hw.n Inpw (Protection of Anubis) | - Anubis god of mummification and guardian of the necropolis in peasant’s name:
* The peasant carried name of god Anubis who was honored in city of the salt.
 Anubis was the only refugee for the peasant.
- Description as: ḫḥ ṣḥty “Peasant”
* The peasant was simple and kind person. |
| (1C) Peasant’s Wife: Mrt “The Beloved One” | - Mrt “the beloved One”:
* Symbol of the lovely wife who supported her husband. |

---

(1D) The High Official:

Renzi son of Mrw

- Name of the father Mrw which was derived from mri “to love” and resembles word mry “beloved”
  - Expressing idea of the high official Renzi as good person who inherited kindness from his father.

(1E) Father of the Bad Employer:

Isry

- Isry was derived from isr “tamarisk”:
  - Isry has relation with w3d isr “green tamarisk” which used by the employer to hit the peasant:
  - Isry signifies the bad employer who inherited cruelty and brutality from his father.

(2) Tale of Sinuhe

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Character Name</th>
<th>Name Relation with nature and behaviors of the character</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>(2A) Hero of the Tale:</td>
<td>- nht “Sycamore” sacred tree of Hathor in second part of the name:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>S3-nht “Sinuhe”</td>
<td>Hathor was the godmother of Sinuhe and she provided him with blessing and protection.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Son of the Sycamore Tree.”</td>
<td>- word nh “escape death” from nht:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Survival of Sinuhe after being saved from death and when he killed the Asiatic champion.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- word nht means “refuge” from nht:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>the chief of Upper Retjnu gave Sinuhe place of safety after permitting him to stay in his land.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- word nht means “magical protection” from nht:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Sinuhe received protection from various deities in the tale like god Montu and goddess Hathor.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- word nhw means “protection of king’s arm” from nht:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>King Snusert I showed mercy towards Sinuhe and gave him permission to return to Egypt and treated him in honorable way as faithful citizen.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- word nht ends with determinative of tree:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Sinuhe was successful person and he enjoyed good fortune.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- word nh “to protect” from nht:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Sinuhe defended and guarded the travelers from the paths robbers.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- word nht ends with determinative of tree with sign of the stick:</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

129 FCD 135.
130 Wb 2, 281.10-11 and FCD 135.
131 FCD 135.
132 FCD, p. 135.
* Sinuhe look for returning back to Egypt to spent the rest parts of his life.

(2B) The Pathfinder:

- word mtn also means “guide”:
- * This person led Sinuhe to reach to have stable life in Upper Retjnu when he met its chief Ammunanši

(2C) Chief of Upper *Ritjnu:

- second part of the name the n negative particle and two letters n and š with determinative of two walking legs h means “to drive away”:
* Ammunanši will not expel” Sinhue and will permit him to stay with him.
- * m* with two determinatives of head and neck of animal L and a seating man who puts finger in mouth S = * means “to know”:
* The chief was wise and he knew the talents and abilities of Sinuhe.

(2D) the Strongman of *Retjenu:

- Showing powerful ability of the Asian champion:
* to magnify the victory of Sinuhe over him.

(3) Tale of the Shipwrecked Sailor

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Character Name</th>
<th>Name Relation with nature and behaviors of the character</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| (3A) the "Follower": | - iqr means “trustworthy man”:
| śmsw |
- description of the follower as iqr “excellent”.
- iqr means “useful”:
* to show the positive personality of the follower towards the high official in the tale.
- iqr means “orderly”:
* the follower know how to organize his thoughts and sentences while talking with the High Offical.
- iqr with determinative of the ibis of god Thoth L S:
* the follower enjoyed the virtues of Thoth god of wisdom.

---

* iqr is used nowadays to describe a clever man with good experience that no one can deceive him.

* the author did not gave name for the follower because he focused on showing his talents in indirect way.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>(3B) The high official</th>
<th>- no name for the High Official:</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>* He was not given a name because he lost the chance of perpetuating his memory because he failed in his mission.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

(4) Tale of Capturing Joppa

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Character Name</th>
<th>Name Relation with nature and behaviors of the character</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Hero of the tale, leader of the army:</td>
<td>- carrying name of Thoth god of wisdom and knowledge:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ghwtyi Thoth</td>
<td>* The leader of the army enjoyed cleverness of putting effective war plans and strategies and knows how to deceive his enemies.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

(5) Tale of Two Brothers

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Character Name</th>
<th>Name Relation with nature and behaviors of the character</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>(5A) Elder Brother:</td>
<td>1- Name reflected role of god Anubis as embalmer god and guardian of tombs through:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tnpw “Anubis”</td>
<td>(a) Throwing body of the dead wife to the dogs.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>(b) Restoring life for his younger brother.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

| (5B) Younger Brother: | (a) The three strokes III refer to the three times of death of Bata in the tale. |
| Bṭṭḥ “Bata” | (b) ṣ with meaning of bread was associated with regeneration of life. |

In addition, other points can be indicated represented in:–

I. The existence of the deities in the names played important roles to express nature of the characters and their behaviors in the tales.

II. Names of the characters reflected and emphasized beliefs of the ancient Egyptians towards importance of the names for the person in the society.

III. The unnamed characters reflected the importance of not associating the names which carried good epithets in the ancient Egyptian society with the persons who acted badly and committed sins.

IV. It might seem amazing to consider the authors of the ancient Egyptian tales as the pioneers who associated meanings of the characters names with their roles and behaviors in the events. This was witnessed in the famous tales from the successive periods. For example, in the fairy tales, Sindbad was described as the sailor because of his naval journeys\textsuperscript{134} and the name of “Clever Hassan” signifies his intelligences\textsuperscript{135}. In the contemporary worldwide famous novels of Harry Potter, name of the evil character Lord Voldmort gives meaning of flying of death because he never hesitated in using his magical power to kill the innocents while name of the hero Harry Potter referred to meanings of strength and leadership referring to his essential role in guiding the battles against Voldmort\textsuperscript{136}.

Bibliography:

Gardiner A.H., “The Eloquent Peasant”, in JEA 9, No. 12, April 1923, p. 5-25.

James T.G.H., “Ancient Egyptian Writings of Imagination and Thought” in BAEDE 16, p. 69-86.

تعميات على أسماء الشخصيات في خمس قصص من مصر القديمة

هشام عز الدين زيكي
قسم الإرشاد السياحي، كلية السياحة والفنادق، جامعة مدينة السادات

ملخص

يقدم البحث تعليقات على أسماء الشخصيات في خمس قصص شهيرة من الأدب المصري القديم بهدف ربط معنى الأسم بطبيعة الشخصيات وسلوكها ودورها في الأحداث. بداية من قصة شكاوى الفلاح الفضي فابس الموظف الشرير جحوى- نكت بمعنى "تحوت قوى" برمز إلى امتلاك الموظف لصفات إله الحكمة تحولت لكنه يستخدم ذكائه في الشر والخداع وكذلك لجوءه للقوة والعنف ضد الفلاح والاستيلاء على بضائعه الثمينة. بينما اسم الفلاح الفضي "خونانيو" يشير إلى حمايته من قبل أنوبس حارس الجبالة لكنه مع الأ sư تعرض لتهديد بالمومت من قبل الموظف الشرير وبالنسبة لأسم سنوحي بمعنى "ابن شجرة الجميز" في قصته فهو يحمل العديد من الروميات فيجانب تمتعه بالحماية من الرعب حاتحور فالأسم يحمل معاني الحظ السعيد والنجاح ودور سنوحي في الحماية وحفظ الأمن. وقد يحمل اسم الحاكم الأسويOUS عمومانشي معاني المعرفة الإدارية لحفل سنوحي الجيدة ودوره الهم في استقبال سنوحي ورعايته واهتمامه والتكلي عنه، كما أن مقتفي الأثر أو واجد الطرق الأسوية الذي انتقد سنوحي من الموت فقد نتيجة للاهتمام المؤلف عن دوره الهم في إرشاد سنوحي للطريق الصحيح حتى قابل عمومانشي وبالنسبة للمفاصل الأسوية التي تحدد سنوحي فقد تم وصفه بانه ليس له نظير من أجل تعظيم أنتصار سنوحي عليه. ولقصة البحر الغريق عالل القصة هو التتابع الذي تم وصفه بل أكثر "الملاح والممتاز" فين على تمتعه بالذكاء وحسن ترتيب الأفكار واختيار العبارات الإيجابية والكلمات الفعالة لرفع الروح المعنوية للأمير الذي لم يتم ذكر اسمه لأنه لم يحقق النجاح المستحق ليخذل اسمه. أما عن القائد العربي جحوى في قصة الإستيلاء على باها فاسمه يحمل دالة تعنيه بحكمة الإله حجوى في وضع الخطط الحربية ودخل خصمه وهو ما تحقق من خلال انتصاره بدون خسارة أي فرد من جنوده وأخيرا بالنسبة لقصة الأبورين فالأول الأكبر يحمل اسم أنوبس إليه التحنيط في إشارة ضمنية لقيامه بإنهاي حياة زوجته وحفرمانها من المومت بعد القاء جثتها للكلاب وقيامه بإعادة الحياة لشفقه الأصغر باتا الذي يوجد في اسم ثلاث خيوط في اشارة إلى تعرضه للمومت ثلاث مرات في القصة كما أن اسمه تم كنابه باستخدام علامات الخير المرتبطة باستمرارية الحياة.

وفي النهاية اتضح فعالية استخدام الأسماء للتعبير على طبيعة الشخصيات ودورها في أحداث القصص.